

OTHER SHIPPERS TO HAITI

Parish Twinning Program - Updated 02/2018

► If you miss our sea container shipment or wish to explore other ways to ship goods to Haiti, here are a few other options for you or your parish. You can initiate your own shipments any time of the year. You can send either a full container (FCL) or an "LCL"-- a Less-than-full Container Load, which will likely get "consolidated" with other unrelated shipments, or LTL (trailer load). You must choose an overall recipient ("consignee") in Haiti for your shipment, and it helps to hire an agent or individual in Haiti to handle the time-consuming paperwork there. There is paperwork with Customs and paperwork involving the Ministry of Finance, Ministry of Planification, and the Ministry of Cult (meaning Culture). You also have to have helpers unloading and possibly also dock access and a forklift/tow motor if sending heavy or large items. You may have to pay whichever total is greater: the cubic footage cost or the weight/poundage cost. If your shipper doesn't handle the Customs paperwork, then you will have to pay the Customs charges separately. Donated goods are considered "relief cargo." For small shipments in a hurry, try Agape Flights or regularly scheduled American Airlines flights--but rush shipments are expensive. (Dial 1 before area codes below.) -Disclaimer: We are not formally recommending any shipper and cannot guarantee their service or quality.

► Crowley Shipping in Jacksonville, FL: They have their own trucking line and can pick up your shipment in most of the U.S. They can pick up amounts as small as one pallet or a less--than-full-container load and also full containers. They can drive a container to your location that you load on site. All items must be boxed or on pallets. They have in-house customized brokers if needed. They go to Haiti, Dominican Republic, etc.
